CENTERVILLE POLICE CHIEF RETIRES

Centerville Police Chief Bruce Robertson has announced his retirement effective today, February 9, 2018. Robertson has almost 40 years of service with the Centerville Police Department, starting as a cadet in 1978. Over the past four decades, he held the positions of Police Officer, Sergeant, Lieutenant and Captain before being named Chief in 2011.

In a joint statement, Centerville Mayor Brooks Compton and Centerville City Manager Wayne Davis said, "We thank Chief Robertson for his service and wish him well in retirement." According to Davis, Centerville Police Lieutenant Matt Brown has been named interim Police Chief.
